The return to warmer conditions attracted a good field of 49 players for round 3 of the Men's Summer Cup, where the players with higher handicaps showed the way as can be seen in the scores for each grade. In A grade David Kinch posted a respectable 33 points to take the win. His attempt to drive his tee shot under the bridge on the 11th hole was entertaining for the group waiting on the 15th tee, and they were suitably impressed with his excellent recovery shot. Countbacks were needed to separate the next three places, with three players on 32 points. Mark Moylan's very good back nine was enough to give him second place over Ben George in third, with Lindsay Johanson just missing out on a podium finish. In B grade, Mark Bercini took the win in his first competition event for the year with a pleasing 34 points. Garry Taylor took out second place on 32 points on a countback from Mick Martin on the same score. But it was C grade where the high scoring was done today. The top five scores would have been good enough to win the other two grades. Katelyn Keogh's purple patch of form continued after an incredible 43 points (24 on the back nine). No doubt the handicapping system will take note! Brett Trezise had one of his best rounds ever with a tremendous score of 42 points, but unfortunately it was only good enough for second place today. Luke Tarrant is another who had a good scoring day with 39 points for third. Luke also added a NTP on the 2nd/11th and the Pro NTP on the last hole to round off a great day of golf. Robert Miller could only smile when he realized his 37 points was going to leave him 4th but ahead of the rest of the field. Sometimes golf is a funny game! Andrew Bercini picked up the NTP on the 13th, while Chris Zawirski and Mick Barrett shared shot of the day with both their NTP's on the 4th and 9th holes respectively finishing 90cm from the hole.

With one round left in the Men's Summer Cup it is still up for grabs as most players will be including their round 4 score in their best three. Out of the players who have played all 3 rounds so far, Steve Eccles still leads with 102 points, with Michael Carling second on 97 points and Robert Biles on 94 points.
