A lovely Autumn morning greeted the field of 48 golfers for today's par event. As the wind picked up for the later starters, scoring well in the calmer conditions turned out to be rather valuable. Mick Barrett took the honours in A grade with a good score of +3. At one stage Mick was sitting on +6, but the wind must have contributed to a few minus scores on the back nine. Robert "Bob" Biles took second place with +1. Bob's rules questions once we are back in the clubhouse always seem to get the discussion going. Peter Conroy took third place with -2 on a countback from playing partner Craig Howe and Bill Davies on the same score. Katelyn Keogh won her second par event in a row with a solid score of +3. Despite the win, playing partner and husband Andrew will have bragging rights tonight as he had his first ever eagle on the 16th hole. Andrew said he hit two good shots and then chipped in for the eagle 3. No doubt the distance for the chip in will increase as the story gets retold. Ian Howell had a consistent +1 on each nine to score +2 to take second place, while John Burgess took advantage of the calmer early conditions to post +1 to come third. Hannah Wilson continued her run of good form, posting the best score of the day with +5 to take 1st place in C grade. Richard Turnbull took second with a very good +4. Richie's putter was on fire today and helped him post his best score for quite a while. Lee Jackson was back after a Murray River golfing tour and posted a handy score of 0 to take third place on a countback from James Wilson. In the NTP's, Peter "Pedro" Mackenzie tried to take shot of the day off Andy after almost holing out on the 4th hole, stopping it just 45cm from a tight front pin. Neil Jordan hit a solid shot into the 2nd/11th hole to win with 113cm. Murray Kingston was the best on the 13th with 319cm, while David Kinch's shot on the 18th almost went in, but just slid past to finish at 244cm to take the NTP and the Pro NTP.

A few players had interesting stories to tell before and during their round today. Gary “Barney” Walsh had the best par of the day on the 2nd hole. His misfired his tee shot into the tree near the 5th hole and watched his ball ricochet back down the road and across the bridge towards the 6th tee. His second was bladed to up beside the oleander tree, and then of course he chipped in for a par 3. Ed Garland was one ball short before starting off today. While practicing his chipping before starting, the reports were that he shanked his first one and then the second one went flying into the wall behind the practice putting green and rebounded into the garden. Despite a thorough search, the ball could not be found and got many to thinking when was the last time someone lost a ball on the practice green 😊 In course maintenance news, some new ball washers have been installed around the course. Thanks to Mick Carling and Greg Tearle for their efforts in getting them set up.
